

Research Technician Position

A Part-time position of Research Technician is available immediately in Radiology Department of WUSTL. The position will be changed to a full-time job within 6 months. Responsibility includes data analysis, image processing, animal handling, and assistance to the principle investigators for various laboratory tasks. This is an entry-level position and requires bachelor degree in biology, biomedical engineering, or related fields. Very good communication ability is desirable. One year of experience in a laboratory setting or equivalent combination of education and experience equaling 1 year is preferable, but not required. Ability to work and participate in a laboratory group setting and handle multiple tasks is necessary.

The salary commensurates with experience. If interest, contact zhengj@mir.wustl.edu